Surprise Celebration for Rev. Hauptman

Good Shepherd of the Deaf Lutheran Church of Toledo, Ohio, gave their Pastor, the Reverend August L. Hauptman, a surprise celebration on Nov. 4, 1973, in honor of his twentififth anniversary in the holy ministry. Under the capable leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Snyder all the planning for this special service went without a hitch up to the last minute. It was then when the news had to be broken to him, when he wondered about the size of the crowd showing up, plus being asked to delay the worship service for a few minutes, and the arrival of his children. (Rev. Hauptman had left the children at home, thinking that he was going to the annual voters' meeting, which was the disguise for this big event.) The delay in starting the service was due to the fact that the officiating pastor, Rev. Myron Prok, had to drive over one hundred miles from Cleveland after his morning service there.

The choir of deaf ladies used for this special service was recruited from the congregation on short notice. With only a few minutes practice they gave a beautiful rendition of the hymns used in the service, thus giving the pastor the impression of months of practice.

A catered dinner reception followed the service. Everything was delicious, down to the beautifully decorated anniversary cake. A gift of $100, plus a scrapbook containing photos and all the memorablia of his twenty-five years of service to the deaf was presented to him. Rev. Donald Winkler, on behalf of the deaf of Holy Cross Lutheran Church of Columbus, Ohio, presented the Good Shepherd congregation with a check of $500, to be used for office equipment and visual aids. Several letters of congratulation were read, one from Rev. Herbert Rohe, secretary of deaf ministry, L.C.M.S., was of special note. A poem composed by a member of Good Shepherd, Mrs. Miriam Kerr, was read, which reads as follows:

Happy 25th Anniversary

Rev. Pokorny Writes Ten Devotions for Children

Rev. Daniel Pokorny of Gallaudet College for the Deaf in Washington, D.C., has written ten devotions for the May, 1974 issue of MY DEVOTIONS.

MY DEVOTIONS is a monthly publication of Concordia Publishing House intended as a daily devotional guide and help for young Christians. The guide for children's devotions features many pictures and practical applications of God's truth to personal living as the child of God.

New Horizons

Nobody knows the loneliness, And nobody knows the bear Nobody knows the handicap Like those who cannot hear.

We cannot hear the song of the bird, Nor a baby's hungry cry, We cannot hear the church bells ring, Nor a mother's lullaby.

We cannot hear the voice of a friend, Nor the sound of the buzzing bee, But thanks to Him who gave us life, He gave us eyes to see.

No one knows our gratitude To those who hear and care No one knows the hope they've brought To Deaf folks everywhere.

- Even the air we breathe seems to change As we view this bright new day New horizons light our way Thanks to the men of vision and faith.
- Thanks to the men of vision and faith, We now can communicate And thanks, Dear Lord, this help has come Before it was too late.

Now we know what we must do. Our future is quite plain. Education is our goal, More knowledge we must gain.

We need to take our place in this life, Not lament we cannot hear. And let others think of us Everyday, and month, and year. We have the power this challenge to meet, To be what we want to be.

U seful in God's work. P erson who loves our Lord. T o a fine man in ministry. M an of God. A person who gave his love to God. N ame is August L. Hauptman.

Reverend Hauptman graduated from Concordia Seminary, Springfield, Illinois, in 1948. He started his work among the deaf in the Montana - Spokane, Wash. Field where he had spent his vicarage years. He stayed with them until 1959, when he accepted the call to the St. Paul, Minnesota Field. He received and accepted the call to the Toledo, Ohio Field in 1971, where he is presently serving.

Some days our head seems to have absolutely no ideas for putting into The DEAF LUTHERAN; and none of the parish papers has any of the slightest either! Then, on other days we seem to have so many, many. The January issue of Trinity Parish Paper seems to have enough ideas to fill all the parish papers and The DEAF LUTHERAN, too. It makes me so happy to find certain parish papers so full of folks with ideas that they can't find room for! Happy is the church and paper that has people overflowing with ideas! The D. L. Editor

AN UNUSUAL EXPERIENCE

One evening during my Thanksgiving and Christmas vacation period, a hearing couple invited me over for an evening discussion with two other couples and myself. Naturally, I was not expecting anything out of the ordinary. The others came in and we were all introduced to each other.

My host produced the December 1973 issue of The music with the deaf. Grace also helped with our Thursday eveming classes, sharing Jesus with our young people, at the Washington State School for the Deaf.

They wanted to be sure of that before any of the discussions began. They said that they just wanted to hear my own individual answers and/or unprepared answers on the points covered in questions they selected from the list.

It was an unusual request and discussion. I was assured by their understanding and desire for some unbiased talk. I have never been asked by a deaf group to propose such a question-and answer session. Should there be any?--UCJ

THANK YOU! THANK YOU!

Many memories remain with me from that glorious CELE-BRATION! Much Joy filled my heart when I came to the church on that day of my installation, seeing people who care, warm Our first Deaconess at Hope Lutheran Church of The Deaf people, who came to share in the Joy of Christ's calling. The DEAF LUTHERAN/January, 1974 Please, Lord; Thank You!

One night the dogs were barking and I couldn't get to peace to my heart and mind sleep so I decided to get up out of bed and pray. As I was praying by my bedside, I was praying the usual prayer: wills. We can will to trust please do this for me and that for me, and I was getting more despondent by the minute until I realized that God is perfect and if my relationship is not right with him, then the logical reason is that I am not right with him.

I concentrated then on thinking about not what I wanted God to do for my church and for me, but what God has already done on the cross in Jesus Christ and what he has done for many years for me personally.

A change came over me and I thanked God for his wonderful goodness and love. And I asked him to strengthen my faith and let me trust him to recharge. He has great and many responsibilities, and the drain of life is heavy on him. He needs time for rest and meditation.

2. He needs time with his family. A renowned psychologist said, "An ordained minister is first a husband, then a father, and then a pastor, in that order."

3. Be open with your pastor. If you don't like something he said or did, be man enough to go to him and talk with him about it. He will appreciate you more this way than if you buzz behind his back.

4. Let your pastor be one with you. Let him be a part of the family of your church. Don't set him up on a pedestal. He doesn't belong there.

9. Don't cut yourself off 5. Remember that your --Robert L. Thaden pastor is a human being --Robert L. Thaden more. There came a wonderful that was not there before.

Then I began to see how much God has left up to our the devil and think that God is good, or we can will to trust the Lord and realize that the devil is bad. I purposed in my heart that for one night I would trust in the goodness of God.

I recommend to you the next time you cannot sleep, that you get up, kneel in prayer and thank God for what he has done on the cross in love for you, realize that God is really a good God, trust in his goodness for your life and then go back to bed and get a good night's rest on his wonderful promises of love to you.

Dear Reader:

This double column usually contains the roster of those who work among the deaf. However, I have taken liberties to delete these columns in order to bring you this message. I must beg the editor's forgiveness and understanding. If you never hear from me again, you will know that the editor, "The Happy Warrior," as he is called by those who know him well, alas, has done me in because I stole his columns. However, I must defend myself by saying you would rather read these words than a pile of names and addresses and this is the only way I can get a word in edgewise to say what must be said.

First, maybe I'd better explain how I can do this. You see, the editor and I have a standing agreement that I read the paper before it goes to press. Thus, I had this opportunity to review it after your editor had put it together.

But I want to explain a few things - First, this issue is only four pages. Not because your editor is lazy nor is it because he has nothing to say - he has enough for three months copy - but this month it is only four pages because your editor has been on the sick list. In fact, he has been struggling with a respiratory problem for over a month. That's why the December issue was a bit late and this January issue is brief. However, I want you to know that in spite of his difficulties, he got the paper out. What you should know is that he returned to St. Louis in the middle of the worst snow season St. Louis has had in 100 years and went to work to get this paper to you. In other words, when he should have stayed in the warm climate of the south and when he should have said "I quit" he, nevertheless, pulled himself together, came into the ice and snow of Missouri and put in two 24-hour days to get this paper to you. Thanks, U.C.!

While I've got space and am at it, let me announce that the ILDA Board will meet in St. Louis on February 7-9. They will be working for you to plan and prepare for the 1975 ILDA convention in D. C. This convention will be a great one! It will be a few days before the World Federation of the Deaf meets in D. C., so you will have a chance to attend two conventions in one trip.

The ILDA Board will also be struggling to find ways and means to gather funds to support its programs and will work to make ILDA more effective and successful in the future. We will bring you a report on the results of the meeting in future issues. Look for the minutes of the Secretary, Archie Marshall, in the March issue - or maybe already in the February issue.

Then, I'd like to wish you all a personal wish for God's blessing in the New Year! This means a wish that God will not only walk with each one of you, but that each of our congregations will thrill to His precious Word as it grows and glows in your hearts and lives and that you will be God's blessing to many in your communities, states, districts, and region. It is indeed thrilling and exciting to see the great things God is doing for us, with us and thru us in local congregations, in North America, and in the whole wide world.

In quietness and peace, And I talked with God And prayed my faith would never cease. I considered how my faith took hold When I was first received within His fold. I said, "Not my will but Thine be done." Launched out in FAITH and found my problems fading one by one. There in His house I raised my voice and sang, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee." And God in Christ replied, "Come --- follow me." So, I placed my hand in His hand and walked with my Savior and Friend, And heard Him sweetly whisper, "I'll be with you to the end." I took hold of God's promises and my FAITH grew stronger day by day. I've never had Him fail me once As I've followed MY LORD all the way. -- Doris B. King

Finally, I'd like to urge and encourage each of you to do his or her part to keep on keeping on the road of Christ to joy and heaven. Sometimes I think we fail to see the great things God is doing for us and with us. Recently, I had a note from a teacher who went to England at Christmas where she spent the holidays with her family. She said they had to shop in stores without heat and lit only by candle light because of strikes and fuel shortages. She worshipped with the deaf in a church that had no heat on Christmas eve. But she said that though it was cold, she was warmed by the friendly and warm hearts of the deaf. And that was wonderful! May our hearts always be warm for Christ and by the love of Christ in a cold, cold world!

In Him - Loving because He loves!

Shame! Shame!

50 people turned out to hear Senator Talarico at the Western Tennessee Deaf Education (WTDE) meeting at Peabody Library. Shame on you, parents! You don't care about the education of your child. You must not love them very much. Teachers, where were you? Every teacher or supervisor... you neglected your duty.

Hurrah--Vernon Daws--someone reads our newsletter. Parents of Deaf Children, look out! Here comes Vernon Daws Vernon is deaf, married, has one son and has a good job in West Memphis. He also has good usable speech. Listen to his letter:

"Dear Brother Leber, We want to congratulate you on the little article entitled 'Parents of Deaf Children-wake up' that you carried in your March newsletter. Our feelings are that such an article is long overdue.

We tried to refrain from writing this letter. It may be that silence is golden but we could not restrain our inner feelings any longer. Since we have lived without auditory communication for the last 42 years of our life, we haven't any doubts that the article speaks an awful lot of truth.

For some unexplained reason parents of deaf children are most often entirely uninterested in the child's educational, social, civic and his well being in the community. Often they will take their child to a doctor concluding he knows everything there is to know about deafness. They usually accept his advice never bothering to ask, 'Have you ever had any field experience with the deaf?'

These same parents will cheerfully accept Red Cross, Girl Scouts, Mothers' March charity duties and yet have the feeling they need not bother with some deaf member of the family or the community. But why not? The deaf are human beings...not a bunch of robots made by General Electric.

The weird thing that most of the civic and social good the deaf come by is fostered on them by someone who is either a professional or some kind hearted soul who has compassion for them. When they need help other than food, clothing and shelter, their parents are unexplainably absent. We don't mean to say that parents should carry the deaf around under their arms practically all the time. The deaf do need to learn independence and self-reliance. But let us say at this point that no person is selfsufficient; we all need a little help now and then. It is not sin to be deaf, neither is it a disgrace. Yet there are some parents who insist that their deaf children make it a full time business of concealing their deafness by pretending to be a perfectly normal person. Yet his garbled English, his self-styled mannerism and aloofness labels him a queer bird indeed. He usually has no life of his own and he suffers his way through life in this manner just to please his family.

To borrow an expression we say, 'Parents of deaf children--wake up!' Help your child to live a happy, well rounded, well adjusted life. If the good Lord wants your child to live in a silent world, why try to pretend it isn't so? Why pretend? Why cover up? Why shirk your duty? Isn't it better for the deaf child to become a useful member of the community rather than a cull?

Parents of deaf children--wake up! There is no denying you can help your deaf child and the deaf of your community live a richer, fuller life if you really want to. Will you help us create a bigger and better tomorrow? Your child does not want to grow up to be a public pawn. Hiding his disabilities is as wrong as a clock striking 13. What is important is to help him develop his abilities. You can help him a lot. See you there!

My Dear Young Friends:

CHURCH HAS FUEL FOR THOUGHT

The worst is yet to come. We had to be in bed by nine each night and up early the next morning. We couldn't sleep till noon like our friends--in fact, my mother broke the child labor law by making us work. We had to wash dishes, make beds, learn to cook, and all sorts of exhausting jobs. I believe she lay awake at night thinking up mean things to do to us.

She always insisted upon our telling the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, even if it killed us--and sometimes it nearly did.

By the time we were teenagers, our lives became even

Respectfully, Vernon B. Daws."

The World's Meanest Mother

I had the meanest mother in the whole world. While other kids ate candy for breakfast, I had to have cereal, eggs, or toast. When other kids had cokes and french fries for lunch, I had to eat a sandwich. As you might guess, my supper was different from theirs too. But at least I wasn't alone in my sufferings. My sister and two brothers had the same mean mother as I did.

My mother insisted upon knowing where we were at all times. You'd have thought we were on a chain gang. She had to know who our friends were and what we were doing. If we said we'd be gone for an hour, she insisted that it more unbearable. There was none of this tooting the horn of a car for us to come running. She embarrassed us no end by making our dates and our friends come to the door to get us. I forgot to mention that while our friends were dating at 12 and 13, my old fashioned mother refused to let us date until the age of 16 or past. Sixteen, that is, if we dated only to go to school functions or church services.

As you see, my mother was complete failure. None of us has ever been arrested, divorced, or beaten his mate. Each of my brothers served his time in the service of this country. Look at all the things we missed. We never got to march in a protest parade, nor take part in a riot, burn draft cards, and a million and one things that our friends did. And whom have we to blame? That's right--our mean mother. She forced us to grow up into God-fearing, educated, honest adults.

It is with this background that I have now become a mother. When my three children call me mean, I stand a little taller and am filled with pride. You see, I can thank God for the meanest mother in the whole world, and I want to be just like her! --Selected
